

The Publisher begs respectfully to announce that he has still on Sale a few complete Sets of the three former volumes of

ORIENTAL ANNUAL.

The object of the Proprietor has been to make this Work something beyond a mere elegant trifle; it will be found to contain matters of history, and views of society, which, he trusts, will render it a book of the library as well as of the drawing-room table.

THE FORMER VOLUMES ARE ILLUSTRATED IN THE SAME STYLE AS THE PRESENT, AND ARE ALSO UNIFORMLY BOUND.

A large paper edition, in royal 8vo, with India-proof impressions of the plates, was printed, of which a very few perfect sets now remain,—price £2. 12s. 6d. each volume.

“The two former volumes of this elegant yet solid Annual were chiefly devoted to the Presidencies of Madras and Bengal. The present volume (1836) nominally embraces Bombay, and completes the first series of a work which is unrivalled in its class for the permanent interest and instructive character of its matter, for the unity and completeness of its design, for the clearness and strength of its composition, as well as for the splendour of its illustrations and of its more mechanical adornments. In the present, as in the former publications, the matter of Mr. CAUNTER’S descriptive account is not a tour, but the impressions and the striking incidents of a tour, intermingled with individual portraiture and historical episodes. Hence, perhaps, the peculiar character of his Annual. It has the reality of a mere book of travels without its dryness, and some of the spirit of fiction without its untruth.” — Spectator, October 17th, 1835.
